The Hotjar Plugin is an extension for Grav CMS.

It allows You to add hotjar script for collect and tracking data.

Installation

Installing the Hotjar plugin can be done in one of three ways: - GPM (Grav Package Manager) - manual method - admin method

GPM Installation (Preferred)

To install the plugin via the GPM, through your system's terminal (also called the command line), navigate to the root of your Grav-installation, and enter:

bin/gpm install hotjar

This will install the Hotjar plugin into your `/user/plugins` -directory within Grav. Its files can be found under `/your/site/grav/user/plugins/hotjar` .

Manual Installation

To install the plugin manually, download the zip-version of this repository and unzip it under `/your/site/grav/user/plugins` . Then rename the folder to `hotjar` . You can find these files on GitHub or via GetGrav.org.

You should now have all the plugin files under

/your/site/grav/user/plugins/hotjar

NOTE: This plugin is a modular component for Grav which may require other plugins to operate, please see its blueprints.yaml-file on GitHub.

Admin Plugin

If you use the Admin Plugin, you can install the plugin directly by browsing the `Plugins` -menu and clicking on the `Add` button.

Configuration

Before configuring this plugin, you should copy the `user/plugins/hotjar/hotjar.yaml` to `user/config/plugins/hotjar.yaml` and only edit that copy.

Here is the default configuration and an explanation of available options:

enabled: true
hjsv: 6

Note that if you use the Admin Plugin, a file with your configuration named `hotjar.yaml` will be saved in the `user/config/plugins/` -folder once the configuration is saved in the Admin.

Usage

Properly working of Hotjar integration requires Hotjar ID.

Hotjar snippet version is set to the current Hotjar version.

Clear the cache after updating the configuration.
